Transportation Services

Revised: December 2015

GSIL offers a variety of different transportation services. Which includes wheelchair accessible and transportation reimbursement program as well as fee for service and we are a Medicaid provider. If our transportation does not fit the person's needs or they are not eligible, we will do our best to point them in the right direction.

Below are descriptions and some eligibility guidelines for transportation services. We will need to hear from the individuals to see if they qualify for our services.

Information and programs are subject to change due to funding and availability

Wheelchair Accessible Transportation: Our wheelchair accessible transportation is available during times and areas that public transportation is not. Can be used 2 times a month. This can change from year to year. There cannot be a wheelchair accessible vehicle in the household.

Transportation Reimbursement Program: We also have a transportation reimbursement program for individuals who cannot drive because of their disability. Can be used to reimburse drivers or purchase a monthly bus pass. Cannot have a vehicle in the household. Reimbursement is up to $100 a month. The monthly bus pass is generally $20-$30 a month.

Wheelchair Accessible Transportation Reimbursement: If someone qualifies for our wheelchair accessible transportation and live in an area that provides public transportation, we can assist with a monthly bus pass. The monthly bus pass is generally $20-$30 a month.

Purposes and Eligibility for Wheelchair Accessible and Transportation Reimbursement: Both services are for shopping, social events and other community purposes. There cannot be an accessible vehicle in the household.

We do have income eligibility guidelines and would need to hear from the individual to see if they qualify. The individual must be their own legal guardian and be able to self-direct. They also cannot be receiving services through another organization that provides transportation services.
